

Invitation

Mid-term seminar

30th of September, 2010

UNESCO-IHE, Delft, The Netherlands

What is lenvis about?

Lenvis communicates actual environmental information in the domains of water and air and possible associated health threats, using modern ICT for connecting, informing and alerting governments, professionals and citizens. Special attention is given to youngsters. Users of lenvis can connect to the network and interact, using personalised and localised services on internet. The lenvis project is funded by the European Commission. The project is performed by a consortium of 10 EU organisations. The team consists of professionals of universities, industries and governments.

Why a seminar?

The lenvis project is halfway. A lot of progress has been made since the start of the project in the autumn of 2008. Several interesting results and products have been developed which we would like to demonstrate and share with you. We would like to discuss what lenvis can mean to you and how you can apply lenvis in your daily work. Your comments on lenvis will help to enhance the final results and products of the project to meet your needs in the best possible way.
